GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

MacMahon's Recent Action--His Disgraceful Conduct.

NEW YORK Feb 15—A Paris correspondent states that MacMahon's refusal to accept the result of the elections and remove objectionable civil and military officers was not due to personal friendship and other motives publicly assigned but fear of being included in the threatened impeachment of the ministry, and particularly to the influence of the bishop of Angers an active politician of the church, also that the scene in the council chamber when MacMahon resigned was very stormy, he being in a furious rage interrupting Dufaure with foulest oaths and leaving the chamber abruptly in a towering passion

ARLINGTON

THE ESTATE TO BE RESTORED TO THE LEE FAMILY

[Washington Special to Chicago Tribune]

It is the general opinion among lawyers familiar with the subject that the Arlington ejectment suit, which the United States district court has just determined in favor of the Lees, will also be decided by the United States supreme court to which it has been appealed, in their favor The judgment of the lower court restores the entire estate to him and calls for the ejectment of all tenants who have been in possession since the sale of the estate under a tax sale in 1863 This includes the United States as a tenant of the National cemetery, the 15 000 union soldier dead that lie therein, and the government signal office and station at Fort Whipple. The decision undoubtedly will give encouragement to the managers of the bill, which proposes that congress shall purchase the property It is just to General Lee to say that he has no desire to disturb the patriot dead, or to regain possession of that part of Arlington cemetery proper which is but a trifling portion of the whole estate General Lee has only wished to establish his entire property rights and is quite willing to surrender that portion of the estate or the whole of it to the government at a fair valuation

The decision shows that the courts have been unwilling to sustain one of the arbitrary acts of the great war minister Secretary Stanton It is certain that he declined to receive a tender of the taxes made prior to the sale by the northern relatives of General Lee on the ground that General Robert E. Lee was a rebel and that no relative should be permitted to redeem his property Secretary Stanton the court says had no authority to do this and it is practically upon that act alone that the whole case turned The judge who rendered the decision cannot be charged with being a southern sympathizer

JOHN CAN'T COME.

Continuation of the Debate on the Anti-Chinese Bill.

All Material Amendments Rejected--Outlines of Speeches of Many Senators

The Bill Finally Passed by a Strong Majority

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Feb 1[illegible]

The senate resumed consideration of the Chinese immigration bill at 1 15 and Hamlin proceeded to speak against it He said that our treaties with China had been procured by coercion exerted by the United States and other foreign powers and that the Pacific coast was even more desirous that the Burlingame treaty should be made than any other section of our country He said that he would not stop to consider whether it is desirable to limit Chinese immigration but conceding the desirability of modifying the treaty he would discuss the question as to the proper method of doing so He would procure the desired modifications by ordinary methods of negotiation He would treat the Empire of China as he would any other nation Few senators would be willing to treat a warlike power as this bill proposed to treat China He was opposed to legislating upon treaties until every other appropriate method was exhausted and except in extreme cases, and this was not one of them

Eaton inquired if Hamlin was not aware that congress last year had passed a resolution requesting negotiation and that nothing had been accomplished

Hamlin replied—We should have a little patience and he believed that, in a reasonable time a solution would be reached satisfactory to the Pacific Coast and the people of the whole country Hamlin proceeded to show that we denied the right of Great Britain to alter the conditions of the extradition treaty by act of parliament and that we are endeavoring to obtain abrogation of the fisheries clauses of the treaty of Washington by negotiation and not by congressional legislation These he claimed to be precedents which we should follow He denied that China has violated the Burlingame treaty by failing to pass laws to prevent involuntary emigration On the contrary he asserted that the emperor of China had issued stringent edicts on that subject He argued that a summary of the action proposed by this bill will probably lead to reprisals by China and result in grave injury to our growing commerce with that empire in which Pacific coast grain raisers and New England common manufacturers alike are interested He admitted that we cannot maintain in our midst any considerable population not entitled to the right of suffrage but argued that the proper way to remedy the difficulty in this case would be to admit Chinamen to naturalization He believed if the Chinese were treated with common humanity on the Pacific coast, they would in time assimilate with us He denied that Chinese cheap labor is more injurious to the white laborers than labor saving machines are and claimed that it had added countless millions to the wealth of California and advanced her condition one hundred years by supplying labor otherwise not obtainable for building railroads reclaiming tule lands etc He said that at least a very respectable minority of the most intelligent people of California tell us that the Chinese are obedient to law, cleanly in habits and a desirable class of laborers He read extracts from a speech delivered by Stewart in the California constitutional convention, and announced himself in favor of Conkling's substitute for the bill and closed with an appeal for the preservation of the national good faith and the maintenance of the underlying humanitarian principles of our republican government. Hamlin's peroration called forth considerable applause from the galleries.

Sargent, referring to Stewart's speech in the constitutional convention said that there were perhaps five hundred men in California who agreed with that speaker, and in reply to one of Hamlin's assertions about the Chinese paying taxes, informed the senate that the entire amount of taxes collected from Chinamen is twelve thousand dollars and less than the cost of maintaining Chinese convicts in the state prison

EUSTIS' VIEWS

Eustis (of Louisiana) was the next speaker He said that he would vote for the bill simply on account of the race question His remarks then took a political turn arguing that the men of the south had been unjustly assailed because of similar difficulties and disturbances growing out of the presence of the negro race among them

BLAINE AGAIN

Blaine replying to Eustis' political remarks called attention to the fact that the pending bill does not apply to Chinese now in this country or interfere with their full protection, but is only designed to prevent the influx of hordes of non assimilating coolie laborers while the negro race has been among us for nine generations and has assimilated with us from the beginning Blaine also replied to Hamlin's remark about labor saving machinery and showed a vital difference between the effects on the condition of white laborers and those of Chinese competition He pointed out the fact that the history of two and a half centuries has shown that the invention of labor saving machinery advances the condition and the pay of free labor He again asserted that congress in deciding that the Chinese should not be allowed naturalization had practically declared that their immigration is not desirable and he reiterated his argument that the presence of large numbers of people in our midst who cannot become citizens is highly dangerous to our institutions

DAWES FOR THE CHINESE.

Dawes of Massachusetts opposed the bill and said he had lived through one war against foreigners and wanted no more He made an earnest speech claiming that the Chinese ought to be admitted to citizenship and that if they had votes they would receive vastly different treatment He insisted that this is a question of the right of mankind to live and breathe and walk upon our earth and that our country especially the Republican party should maintain these rights for all men and races who may wish to seek homes among us

DAVIS FOR CONKLING'S AMENDMENT

Davis of Illinois said he was in favor of abrogating that portion of the treaty which allows unrestricted immigration of Chinese but although he conceded the constitutional power of congress to abrogate it he thought we should give China notice in the usual way and that he should vote for Conkling's amendment.

Sargent said that this amendment was not objectionable in principle but it was of no use to the bill A nation had a right of self defense and when it exercised the right it took the consequences It was not necessary for us to assure the emperor of China that he had any such right.

THURMAN AGAINST THE AMENDMENT

Thurman said the amendment was in effect saying to the emperor of China You can stop all commercial intercourse between the United States and China and we will not take offense He for one was not willing to say to the emperor of China that on account of the passage of this bill they could close the five Chinese ports against us He also thought the amendment was mischievous as it was an invitation to the emperor of China to drive every American citizen out of China.

CONKLING'S AMENDMENT REJECTED.

The amendment was rejected Yeas 2[illegible] nays [illegible] as follows

Yeas—Messrs Anthony Bruce Burnside Butler Cameron of Wis. Conkling Conover, Davis of Ill Davis of West Va. Dawes Edmunds Ferry Garland Hamlin Hoar Howe Ingalls Kellogg McCreery McMillan Matthews Maxey Merrimon Morrill Oglesby Rollins and Withers—

Kirkwood Lamar McDonald McPherson Mitchell Morgan Paddock Patterson Plumb Ransom Sargent Saulsbury Saunders Sharon Spencer, Teller Thurman Voorhees Wallace Whyte and Windom—3[illegible]

The bill having been considered in committee of the whole was then reported to the senate and all amendments made in the committee were concurred in

THE NEW YORK SENATOR TRIES AGAIN

Conkling renewed in the senate his amendment which had been voted down in committee of the whole and said he renewed it in the belief that a great nation had better not by doubtful means seek to accomplish that which might be done by means sanctioned and recognized by civilized nations Suppose there were 120 000 Chinese in California how much would the number grow between July 1 [illegible] when the bill takes effect and January 1 1880 when his proposition would take effect What was that brief period in the life of a nation

Sargent said that Senator Conkling would come back here in January and oppose any legislation to give the people of his section relief The amendment's imply promised relief in which the people would be disappointed

Mr Conkling again spoke in support of his amendment which he said would preserve the honor the decorum of the American people Has the committee on foreign relations reported this [illegible] [illegible] belief was that the very senators who [illegible] like [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] straining upon the start [illegible] this [illegible] would have [illegible]

CONKLING [illegible]

[illegible] discussion then occurred between Messrs Conkling and Thurman in regard to the right of expatriation [illegible] [illegible] some comments of Conkling [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] complimentary [illegible] replied that [illegible] this rebuke [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] instructive It wounded him to the heart [laughter] He was never so unhappy [illegible] his [illegible] and it should be the study of his life to cure him [Renewed laughter Nevertheless he [illegible] proceed to [illegible] the senator [illegible] [illegible] doctrine concerning the [illegible]

Mr Hoar of Massachusetts said that as he understood the senator from Ohio to argue the doctrine of expatriation [illegible] that a bird can [illegible] have [illegible] without the privilege of alighting anywhere

Thurman said he would [illegible] the highest [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] that [illegible] had nothing to do with birds [Laughter]

Wadleigh of New Hampshire favored Conkling's amendment and said that there was a bill now before the senate to grant a $[illegible] subsidy to build up commerce with [illegible] which would not halt [illegible] commerce with China A subsidy of $[illegible] per year had been given to build up Chinese commerce [illegible] was repealed not because the commerce was [illegible] but because of the corruption in procuring the subsidy He argued that this country was [illegible] the trade of China

INGALLS FOR THE AMENDMENT

Ingalls said that he had voted against Conkling's amendment [illegible] intended to vote against the bill also, but [illegible] he would vote for the amendment now [illegible] he believed it would save the honor of the nation

Conkling's amendment was again rejected by a vote of yeas 31 nays [illegible] as follows

Nays—Allison Bailey Bayard Beck Blaine Booth Cameron of Penn Coke Dennis Dorsey Eaton Eustis Gordon Grover Hereford Ingalls Jones of Nev Kirkwood Lamar McDonald Morgan Mitchell Patterson Plumb, Ransom Sargent Sharon Spencer Teller Thurman Voorhees Wallace and Windom—33

Anthony of Rhode Island then submitted as a substitute for the bill the amendment of Conkling with the latter part in regard to notifying the emperor that we will correct the evil by laws of our own in case he refuses left off and it was rejected Yeas [illegible] nays 34

Morrill of Vermont submitted an amendment providing that the bill shall not apply to any master of a vessel seeking harbor in stress of weather Agreed to

Mr Whyte of Maryland submitted an amendment providing that the act should take effect on the 1st of February 1880 and in the meanwhile the president shall negotiate for a modification of the treaty as proposed by the amendment of Conkling Rejected

The question being the passage of the bill [illegible] said that he wished to express his [illegible] [illegible] of the principle upon which this bill was founded He hoped that the [illegible] [illegible] yet provided some means by which this measure so odious to him would fail to become a law

THE BILL FINALLY PASSED

The bill was then read the third time and passed yeas 39 nays 27 as follows

Yeas—Messrs Allison Bailey Bayard Beck Blaine Booth Cameron of Pennsylvania Coke Dennis Dorsey Eaton Eustis Garland Gordon Grover Hereford Jones of Nevada Kirkwood Lamar McDonald McPherson Maxey Mitchell Morgan Oglesby Paddock Patterson Plumb Ransom Sargent Saunders Sharon Shields Spencer Teller Thurman Voorhees, Wallace and Withers—39

Nays—Messrs Anthony Bruce Burnside Butler Cameron of Wisconsin Conkling Conover Davis of Illinois Davis of West Virginia Dawes Edmunds Ferry Hamlin Hill Hoar, Howe Ingalls Jones of Florida Kellogg, Kernan McCreery McMillan Matthews Merrimon Morrill Randolph and Withers—27

Messrs Barnum and Chaffee who would have voted in the affirmative were paired with Messrs Rollins and Wadleigh, who would have voted in the negative

A FULLER REPORT.

Speeches of Several Senators Reported at Length.

HAMLIN'S REMARKS

When the senate resumed consideration of the Chinese immigration bill to-day Hamlin chairman of the committee on foreign relations returned his thanks for the courtesy of the senate in adjourning last evening in order to allow him to speak to day The debate on this bill had somewhat surprised him Friends of the bill charged its opponents with indulging in glittering generalities There had come down to us traditions that our government was established as the home of the free where the outcast of every nation could breathe our free air and enjoy our free institutions yet friends of this bill said that these were glittering generalities opponents of the bill based their doctrine upon that of the distinguished senator Morton no longer with us, but whose spirit he invoked upon the senate to day Morton was a member of the committee sent by the senate to investigate the Chinese question and he had left an imperishable monument in a brief and broken report which he was but spared to complete He (Hamlin) did not deny the power of congress to abrogate this treaty It had the power but there was as broad a distinction between power and right as there was between the poles of the globe on which we live Congress should be guided by the rule of right not of power He asserted that no section of our country was as anxious to secure the treaty of 1868 as the Pacific coast If there was any wrong to be corrected he was as ready as any member on this floor to apply the remedy, but he was not willing to apply a remedy of might for that of right He would proceed by the ordinary rules of negotiation He would treat the Chinese empire as he would any other civilized nation on the face of the earth and said that there was not a senator on the floor who would treat any warlike power of Europe as this bill proposed to treat the emperor of China He then referred to the resolution passed at the last session authorizing the president to open negotiations to secure a modification of the treaty and said that he would drop this bill and trust all to that resolution If there was not this haste to exert the duties of the president a solution of this question would be had under that resolution satisfactory even to the people of the Pacific coast He was opposed to legislation upon treaties except in extreme cases and this was not one of them He referred to the treaty of Washington and the fishery clause and said that when the attempt to terminate that part of the treaty was made it was by a resolution brought forward in the senate to the effect that it was desirable to terminate that part of the treaty Now was the right to abrogate a treaty with China by the legislation proposed and that with Great Britain in another way? He would treat China just as he would Great Britain In reply to the argument of his colleague (Blaine) that China had violated the treaty by not providing certain laws in pursuance thereof Hamlin said that the emperor of China did issue his edict against any and all forcible transportation of Chinese to any foreign country The penalty for a violation of this edict was death He could not find in any statute of ours any law similar to that which we should have passed in pursuance of the treaty He believed that all persons who came here to make this country their permanent home ought to participate in our government ought to be citizens and have the right of suffrage conferred upon them He believed that if the Chinese on the Pacific coast were treated with Christian humanity they would assimilate with our people He then referred to the labor question and said the Chinese cheap labor was a ranting cry It was a cry addressed to the prejudices not to the judgment of men Let us receive the Chinese and teach them the civilization of Christ If we cannot overcome their paganism then we can abrogate the treaty He sent to the clerk's desk and had read a speech of Mr Stewart a member of the California constitutional convention supporting his views

Sargent in reply to a remark of Hamlin that the Chinese pay taxes said that the total amount collected from Chinese in California is twelve thousand dollars less than the annual cost of maintaining Chinese convicts in the state prison He also said there were probably five hundred people in California who agreed with Stewart's speech in convention

EUSTIS' SPEECH

Eustis of Louisiana said he felt it to be his duty to put in a plea for the white people of Louisiana He was surprised at the attitude occupied by republican senators on this Chinese question He would vote for the bill although he believed the arguments against it were overwhelming except upon a single point and that was the race question He was not in favor of abrogating a treaty where we had invited a nation to send their people into our country and say that they should not come because they cheapened labor He did not believe such an argument would be addressed to any of the great christian states of Europe What cause of complaint for us Was it that the Chinese ate rats—that they ate rice or did not eat at all Suppose they did sleep thirty six in a room was there anything in the treaty to regulate their sleeping or diet? What if they did want to be buried in their own country It was a very disagreeable thing to be buried anywhere It was a matter of taste [Laughter His friend Sargent and himself knew something of a political burial [illegible] to the fact that they had not been re-elected but he believed in a resurrection [Renewed laughter] He then referred to Blaine's argument that peace could not be maintained [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] being [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Chinese immigration be stopped and said that when we were to have anarchy violence and blood shed merely because of the presence of the [illegible] [illegible] When the question of race was between the Chinaman and the white man [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Chinaman but when the question [illegible] between the white man and the negro [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Louisiana [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the negro race put over them to make laws and if there was to be violence in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] because of the presence of Chinese how could the senator from Maine be surprised at [illegible] violence in Louisiana The senator (Blaine) ignored the [illegible] in Louisiana How would the people of Maine act [illegible] if they could not [illegible] submit [illegible] [illegible] as it has been to the people of Louisiana [illegible] people of Louisiana never made threats of revolution or [illegible] [illegible] they never made threats of any kind He quoted Booth's remark that the darkest transaction of human history had been enacted when alien races were brought into this country and [illegible] the remark that the Anglo Saxon could not be made otherwise than God had made him He (Eustis) could only express his gratification at the forbearance and law abiding spirit of the people of Louisiana They desired to live at peace with the colored race They desired to elevate them not expel them as was proposed that the Chinese should be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

VICTORIA, B C Feb 15—The steamship California Capt Thorn left Sitka on the 9th and arrived at Esquimalt on Feb 14 at 11 30 P M Much excitement prevailed in Sitka when she left, the Indians having threatened the annihilation of the whites The citizens armed were awaiting their attack The two Indians who murdered James Brown, confessed their guilt and were surrendered to the collector and are now on board the California en route to Port Townsend to be turned over to the United States district attorney to await the action of the authorities at Washington Three families came down on the steamer, fleeing from danger Storekeeper are preparing to emigrate by the next steamer either Metropolis or his Cong[illegible] in conjunction with the Alaskan [illegible] Sitka have petitioned her majesty's [illegible] now lying at Esquimalt to come to their immediate aid, fearful that they cannot allay the disturbances before the U S government can send assistance It is rumored that Ostrich & Co's cannery, about four miles distant from Sitka, is sacked and burned No relief is placed in the rumor, because the company have Indians in their employ who seem to be quite peaceably inclined The collector of Alaska has telegraphed to Secretary Sherman for aid The Indians threatened to kill two white men in retaliation for the two prisoners

The night before the steamer arrived an alarm was given through some nervous person creating the greatest consternation The people barred their doors and stood ready for defense The men's house was crowded with terror stricken women and children and they could not be induced to return to their homes till daylight The steamer's arrival created more confidence, but fear began to gain ground as her departure The whites are well organized and in case they cannot conciliate they will make a desperate fight if they are driven to the wall, and are determined

James Brown was murdered in his cabin while asleep He was backed to pieces with an ax and his remains thrown into the ocean from a canoe Plunder was the incentive, and much of his little property was found in possession of the murderers

All is quiet at Wrangel and business is very dull Weather clear and cold.

The following is the petition sent to the captain of the Blanche

SITKA Feb 9 1879

To the Commander of H M S Blanche Sir—We the citizens of Sitka, Alaska, are now driven to make application to our government for protection aid, and thus far it has taken no notice of our application We have now again begged protection which we hope will be granted, but in the interim further of law through which our protection must drag its way, will create a crisis which may result in our entire demolition before we get any relief from the United States government Our fear is that you will at once send or come to our assistance We beg you will lay aside all forms of etiquette between governments that you will take the side of an oppressed and threatened people who will be sympathy and sincerely deplore your decision for before the expected aid of our government can be had we may be past assistance Our unprotected position is well known Our appeal to you is from man to man We ask help from you in the cause of humanity Poverty prevents the greater number of us from fleeing our homes and little possessions, and greater far the ties of our wives and children and ourselves are in jeopardy Her majesty's government has been ever known for its promptness to assist in the oppressed of any nation and we hope our appeal may meet with a favorable reply We remain yours

AN INDEPENDENT VIEW

The New York T[illegible] speaks of the president's course in relation to the New York cust[illegible] appointments with great severity and its utterances are the more remarkable from the fact that [illegible] has been a strong and consistent opponent of Senator Conkling [illegible] the course of the president [illegible] of fully [illegible] we [illegible] not untouched [illegible] position [illegible] to maintain by reviewing the record which has been made. One [illegible] take of the president [illegible] says [illegible] ing that all his acts in his efforts to change the administration of the custom house have been equally defensible another has been allowing himself and those connected with him to practice in a peculiarly offensive manner the worst of the faults which he attributes to the suspended officer namely the subordination of public business to political ends Finally the greatest [illegible] has been [illegible] Collector Arthur's case in violating his own announced principle by suspending an officer acknowledged to be faithful and replacing him by a man notoriously a scheming politician of low grade who neither possesses nor deserves the confidence of the business community Again If the president had early made a general change in the chief officers loyally observing the rules laid down in his inaugural address and if he had adhered to those rules in his general administration he would have been master of the situation But he did not do this He gave abundant proof that his proposed changes were dictated by much the same class of political and personal motives that he assumes to condemn He shuffled and dallied with the matter for months He allowed himself to be implicated in petty intrigues to subordinate the custom house not merely to partisan ends but to serve the discreditable purposes of cliques and persons While he was feeling his way to a complete change of men he used his position to promote the very abuses on which he at last based his efforts to make the change In other words the administration forced upon the late collector a great lot of unworthy men As the Times alleges [illegible] sought political appointments for its favorites without reference to the collector's judgment of fitness over the heads of acceptable and experienced public servants Such conduct utterly destroys public confidence in the professions of the president Such a course is radically in contradiction to civil service reform and it will be a substantial partisan advantage for the Democracy We present this as an independent view of the subject by a great journal which has always been a steadfast opponent of the Conkling machine, but which nevertheless is not blind to political intrigue in other directions

SOCIALISM, COMMUNISM AND NIHIL-

"Several readers" desire information as to the relations between socialism in Germany, communism in France and nihilism in Russia also, how and wherein they differ from each other They are substantially the same, but vary as the circumstances amid which they exist. Each is an expression of dissatisfaction with pretty much everything in society and government, and each in its more active and violent form is a revolt against society and government. Each proposes readjustment more or less radical and thorough of social and political forces, and each is mostly based on negations especially of individual rights of property and of course also of the powers of government by which these right are upheld. The root of this philosophy if philosophy it may be called is the old war between the Haves and the Havenots. A definition of the principles and aims of the commune furnished by one of its own members would, with certain variations to meet the somewhat different conditions existing in different countries sufficiently describe the other two also viz Their philosophy is atheism materialism the negation of all religion their political programme is absolute individual liberty by means of the suppression of government and the division of nationalities into communes more or less federated their political economy consists essentially in the dispossession of the present holders of property and in assignment of the money land etc to associations of the people The three kindred associations in France Germany and Russia are therefore the great army of the discontented who are opposed totally to the present order of things and would make a pretty clean sweep of all existing institutions Perhaps they might all be designated as nihilists more properly than by either of the other terms since their principles are a negation of the rights of all establishments and since they are content with nothing as it is. That much of the force which it has acquired is a reaction against a grinding autocracy, is doubtless true Thus, like every movement which engages large numbers it has an element of justice in it but so radical and extreme are its purposes that society feels obliged to hold it under the discipline of severe authority Its adherents therefore are under the ban as seditious turbulent and dangerous classes whose ascendancy would produce chaos in society and government and renew the wildest excesses of the memorable reign of terror

Certain petty so-called newspapers accuse THE OREGONIAN of snubbing the interior press That is because THE OREGONIAN doesn't send an exchange to every upstart wipe like the Bungtown Flapjack and Harrisburg Nucleus that wants a daily newspaper for nothing But it does exchange with all the papers of the interior that are of value to it or to anybody, and it highly appreciates many of them There is however a number of miserable sheets started where there is no demand for local journals by persons too lazy and worthless to pursue any useful occupation These extort money for which they render no equivalent and are at once an affliction upon the community where they are printed and a reproach to the legitimate [illegible]nter or press All these claim THE DAILY OREGONIAN in exchange and when they find they can't get it they let off a stream of their natural filth as a rejoinder all of which is faithfully collected and reproduced through the columns of their coparcener and coequal the [illegible] organ [illegible]

In the published reply of Major Quincy A Brooks to the report of the investigating committee the omission of the word settlers being accidentally omitted by the printer somewhat confuses the meaning of the following sentence

The committee says that numerous contests were had before the board between Q A Brooks and settlers regarding land filed on by Brooks and by them invariably decided in Brooks favor

It is a piece of special pleading on the part of Major Brooks to argue that the word them referred to settlers and not to the board The questions at issue are not who are good grammarians or good spellers but how much was stolen and who stole it

[illegible] W C [illegible] eldest son of the late R [illegible] is endeavoring to prove his right to the Arlington estate which was advertised and sold for the assessment and collection of delinquent taxes He says he does not expect to change the existing order of affairs but simply wants a fair payment for the estate by [illegible]

MONDAY MORNING FEB 17 1879

CITY.

A DIFFICULTY—ARRESTED—Saturday night there was quite an excitement at the corner of Oak and First streets, caused by a set-to between an ex captain of the police force B[illegible] Collins and a special officer Mickey [illegible] The former became considerably intoxicated and was conducting himself in a very disorderly manner when the special officer came along The ex captain made use of some abusive language toward the special officer when he was taken under arrest While conducting him to jail Sheehan used his "billy" pretty lively over the prisoner's head cutting some severe gashes and causing the blood to flow freely There are different versions of the difficulty some alleging that the assault was brutal and unjustifiable and others affirming that the special used no more violence than was actually necessary On reaching the jail the ex captain furnished the required bonds and was released To day the matter will be adjusted in police court

DRAMATIC—From an eastern exchange it is learned that Mrs Scott Siddons is soon to appear at Booth's theater New York in "Perdita" in "A Winter's Tale A Chicago paper says Ada Cavendish did the best work and had the best houses at McVicker's The most critical audiences have pronounced her a success. McVicker thinks if she suits San Francisco and Chicago, she has succeeded in two of the hardest cities of the country for a foreign artist to play She plays in "The New Magdalen" next week.

FROM TILLAMOOK.—A letter written from Tillamook under date of February 8th says "The new schooner Honora of Astoria came in last week She is 100 tons burden, and had no difficulty in coming in except from rough weather on the bar She shipped one sea that broke her wheel dislocated the shoulder and otherwise injured the man at the wheel, but did no other damage to the vessel or cargo The Kate L Heron is still in the bay."

CHANGE OF TIME—In accordance with new postal regulations the O S N Co's steamer is required to leave Astoria every morning at 4 o'clock for Portland This order has been issued for the purpose of enabling the mails from all points below Kalama destined for the Sound or Victoria to reach that place in time to connect with the train bound north The steamer bound for Astoria will leave here at the usual time.

MUD BATH—The Jacksonville Sentinel of a late date says The north bound stage upset on the Grave creek hills on Sunday night in a very soft place. Capt Ankeny and William Gass received an elegant mud bath without extra charge The latter gentleman was en route for San Francisco via Portland

MISSIONARY CONCERT—The missionary concert exercises at the Taylor Street Church yesterday afternoon were largely attended, and more than usually interesting A collection was taken up for the missionary cause amounting to upwards of thirty dollars

CIRCUIT COURT—Owing to the continued illness of Mrs. Judge Bellinger there was no court held Saturday We are pleased to announce that Mrs Bellinger's condition is greatly improved, and that court will convene this morning at the usual hour.

TO KEEP THE PEACE—Harvey Hyde appeared before Justice Bybee Saturday and gave bonds to keep the peace toward Mr. [illegible] the architect with whom he had an [illegible] a few days ago, and all the rest of mankind.

NO SERVICE.—There will be no services in the Taylor Street M E Church until Thursday evening of this week, except the regular Tuesday afternoon meeting. On Thursday and Friday evening there will be the usual gospel services.

FROM ASTORIA—A dispatch from Messrs. Trenchard & Upshur, last evening at 6 30 says Steamship Geo W Elder, from Portland, arrived down at 1 30 P M, and crossed out at 3 P M. It is raining and cloudy.

AMUSEMENTS.

The theater was filled from orchestra to gallery on Saturday afternoon the occasion being the last rendition of A Celebrated Case. The performance, otherwise good, was very considerably marred by the drunken condition of two of the actors. It will be a satisfaction to the many whose taste was shocked by their disgraceful exhibition to know that both were promptly discharged by the management. Mr Maguire has too much regard for propriety and for the reputation of his theater to permit indecency and too much respect for the worthy ladies and gentlemen forming his company, to force upon them their embarrassing association.

"A Woman of the People," as repeated on Saturday night at New Market Theater was a remarkably good performance Miss Adams and Mr Allen winning special praise Mr Ward's personation of "Remy" was spoiled by a number of badly-suggested "gags" which unfortunately were not lost on a part of the audience, and certainly were not appreciated by its respectable element, who were largely in the majority That an actor of Mr Ward's ability should resort to such unprofessional and improper means to secure applause is very greatly to be regretted.

To night the "Octoroon" with Miss Adams in the title role and Little Maud as Paul will be produced after careful and expensive preparation. Mr Frank Cleaves has been especially engaged for the part of "Geo Peyton, and Mr Maguire who has not appeared for several weeks will personate the Indian "Wahnotee, and will appear in full warrior's costume the identical suit presented to him by General Custer The emotional beauties of this piece which have made it a popular standard play will certainly be faithfully presented by Miss Adams. The cast is unusually strong

Saturday a man named Andrew Johnson had a preliminary examination in police court on a charge of larceny Johnson it seems, had been employed on the steamer Willamette Chief and a few days ago took a number of blankets from the craft The theft was traced to him and he was arrested The testimony being considered conclusive by the court the defendant was held to answer the charge His bonds were fixed at $500 and in default of bail defendant was committed

A man named Wm Johnson alias McLoughlin was examined in police court Saturday afternoon on a charge of larceny Defendant is a tailor by occupation Friday Mr Thompson of the Thompson boarding house gave Johnson a vest to mend In one of the pockets was $45 in currency, which Mr Thompson did not think of at the time he gave the vest to the tailor Soon after he missed the money and went to find the tailor The latter could not be found for some time After a search the valiant knight of the goose was found in a saloon down street in a beastly state of intoxication Neither the vest nor the greenbacks could be found so the tailor was locked up on a charge of theft The evidences of his guilt were so apparent that he was held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $800 In default of bonds Johnson was committed

HOUSE BURGLARIZED.

The residence of Mr. A Nicolai, in Holliday's addition, East Portland, was entered by a burglar about 1.30 A M. Sunday morning The entrance was effected by means of false keys, or other tools that would open the locks. Mrs. Nicolai awoke, and the room was filled with a blue smoke, and she could hardly breathe She called her daughter in the next room, and just then saw a man with his hat pulled down low on his head passing through the door She then got up and called a son who was up stairs The front door and hall door were both open The burglar got away with a trunk with thirteen new shirts in it, and some playthings belonging to the children He was tracked down the road to Mr Shafer's wharf, where he probably had a boat and escaped with his booty He had opened the bureau drawer and taken out a watch case, but the watch a valuable one, was in another place A box containing a valuable gold ring was in the drawer, and other valuables, which the burglar overlooked in his haste Mr. Nicolai was not at home Mrs Nicolai and her daughter were so stifled with the smoke that they were hardly able to speak, and to-day are feeling the effects with severe headache.

THE BILLIARD CONTEST.

FIRST NIGHT OF THE GRAND TOURNAMENT

The professional billiard players, and a large number of admirers of that exciting game, assembled in force on Saturday evening at the Palace Billiard rooms to witness the inauguration of the grand tournament which is to decide the championship of the northwest The event has caused considerable excitement, and the progress of the games will be watched with growing interest as the tourney proceeds. In drawing for the play Messrs. Rich and Roach were elected to open the tournament, and though at first both displayed considerable nervousness, as the game proceeded they displayed more confidence as their essay in the emulous strife progressed The game opened slow and devoid of interest, but as the candidates warmed up to their work much better play was exhibited and caused some little excitement to ensue and a lively matinee at the pool-box over which Oscar Kilbourn presided with his accustomed grace and dignity The game resulted in a victory for Rich by a majority of 3[illegible] buttons

The second event was contested between Henry Prang and Nat Lane from East Portland which though a creditable performance was not marked by any brilliant play The former was an easy victor To-morrow Josh Davis and Jos. Charters of Albany will meet upon the green and a spirited encounter for supremacy may be anticipated. Manager Elston is to be complimented for his arrangements made for the convenience of spectators and the enterprise displayed in his efforts to make the tournament a success

REV. DR MAY'S LECTURE.

The second lecture under the auspices of the Philomathean Literary Society was delivered Friday evening by Rev Dr May at Masonic hall to a select and appreciative audience. Previous to the doctor's introduction a very pretty vocal solo entitled "Waiting" was charmingly rendered by Miss Cora Pickard evincing a rare musical talent with an unusual sweetness and compass of tone. The accompaniment upon the piano by Miss Test was exceedingly well suited to the voice of the singer and served to increase the evident enjoyment of the listeners at the singing of Miss Pickard Immediately following, President Steel stepped upon the platform and introduced Dr May, who proceeded to the subject in hand by delivering a clear concise and eloquent address upon the Mysteries of the Talmud embracing first a sketch of the Talmud itself and finally of the moving spirits of the age in which and through the influence of whom this great fundamental code of Jewish civil and canonical law partially had its origin flourished and was finally superseded by less voluminous digests

With many unfamiliar with Jewish history the supposition is entertained that the old testament Pentateuch is the guiding star of Jewish conduct in that it contains all the laws which they as a nation recognize This is the Talmud with its many offshoots uniting the Pentateuch or written law which forms but a small part thereof with the unwritten or common law called the Mishna embracing vast quantities of tradition comprising decisions upon the most simple as well as weighty affairs that could possibly engage the attention of mankind The Mishna forms a kind of compliment to the Mosaic law which it explains amplifies and finally fixes as we would say upon the doctrine of [illegible] The traditions upon which it was founded were traced to Mount Sinai itself and are regarded as of quite as binding force as the written Mosaic law and much more useful as covering every possible case that could by any possibility call for its interposition It well answered as a law fixed and determinate, to which the primitive Jews might look as their rule of conduct and was well calculated to command respect as being of too voluminous a character for the common people to investigate a thing in fact which they were prohibited from doing It embraced a realm of thought not yet made common property and running through a period from 500 B C to 530 A D has left behind a mighty and instructive literature comprising over one hundred and twenty octavo volumes It comprises material historical geographical, philological poetical which lies hidden within it. There are two Talmuds the "Jerusalem Talmud closed at Tiberias and the Babylonian Talmud" The first of these now extends over 39 treatises of the Mishna only although it did once exist to the whole of the first Sedarim or portions R Jahunan is said to have reduced this to writing in the form of a digest but it is rather supposed to have been done a century after his death There is more precision and less discussion in this than in the Babylonian Talmud which was not compiled until two centuries afterward Some idea may be formed of the vastness of this work when we learn that it took R Ashe with the assistance of [illegible] secretaries thirty years to collect anew and arrange in order the tremendous mass of Halachistic material which by that time had accumulated in the Talmud, and thirty more years were spent in revising the work thus compiled

The Babylonian is about four times as large as the Jerusalem Talmud and its 36 treatises and commentaries fill 2947 folio leaves

Respecting the Talmud itself however there has never been an entire recognition of its binding force as a law book by the whole Jewish nation

The recognition it has received springs partly from its intrinsic value (it being the most trustworthy receptacle of traditional law) and also to persecution of the Jews by the Persians, who closed their schools and academies for nearly eighty years, during which time the Talmud was the sole authoritative guide of public conscience, and retained its place as such even after the schools were restored

The Mishna was first printed at Naples in 1492 the Jerusalem Talmud at Venice about 1523, and the Babylonian Talmud at Venice about 1520

No one can form an adequate conception of its hidden beauties of literature from any translation One must needs understand the language of the original in order to its proper understanding When properly investigated it will beyond doubt prove one of the most important of records to humanity As a contribution to the records of fanaticism it appears that, although known only by extracts of doubtful authenticity, it has been prohibited, burned confiscated and inveighed against, generally, from Justinian to our own day

At last, however, a few great scholars have come to recognize the Talmud not only as the only source of a knowledge of Judaism, but also as a great aid to the study of the history and origin of the early days of Christianity

And eminent divines, such as John Lightfoot who was a thorough Hebrew scholar, have done much to enlighten the world as to the true office of the Talmud The minds of all men are measured by the product of their brain and the pure literature of the Talmud bespeaks for the many men who labored thereon more than ordinary intelligence and talent measured even by comparison with any age we know At the conclusion of the lecture Miss Test played a spirited march upon the piano, while the audience filed out of the hall The next lecture will be delivered by Hon J N Dolph, at Masonic hall on the evening of February 28 1879 the subject being Our Country its Dangers Its Destiny," followed at intervals of two weeks each by Rev J A Cruzan, Rev Dr T L Eliot and Hon M P Deady

This course of lectures is not unworthy of enthusiastic patronage by our citizens and all who attend any or all of them may feel confident of being more than repaid for the time and expense

Don't fail to remember the next lecture

PARLOR THEATRICALS

A party of young folks assembled at the residence of one of our citizens last Friday evening for the purpose of producing the charming fairy play "Cinderella" This play is too well known to need description The title role of "Cinderella" was entrusted to the hands of a young lady of more than usual ability in this line She held the audience as by magic they sympathizing with her at the cruel treatment of her sisters and [illegible] her and rejoicing at her good fortune in winning the hand of the Prince The part of Prince Amour was well sustained by a young gentleman friend Indeed the noble carriage of the Prince showed that the part was well cast Lady Di Dun and her two proud daughters Arabella and Charlotte were fine pieces of acting bringing out in every respect the treatment of the cruel half sisters toward their sister Cinderella The clear and distinct articulation of "Bully Jim" added greatly to the part she took The fairy godmother "Fantasia" was a capital piece of acting Lord Lavgong kept the audience amused by his quaint sayings and humorous actions The King and Queen with the courtier and ladies of the court added materially to the third and fourth scenes The costumes were elegant and greatly increased the effect The audience was large and attractive and showed their appreciation of the play at times by rounds of vigorous applause Considering the few rehearsals the performance in all respects was one that can hardly be excelled among amateurs and reflects great credit upon the participants

Sometime during Saturday night an old gentleman named George Miller died in his room in a building which stands near the corner of Washington and Sixth streets. ENTERPRISE

Under this caption the Seattle Intelligencer says of Portland There is no town upon the Pacific coast or anywhere which has exhibited such a wonderful growth and material prosperity during the last decade as has Portland There are many places possessing much greater natural commercial advantages but none which has so well improved what it had The prosperity of Portland is due to a combination of personal thrift with public spirit Never losing sight of the main chance its business men have given a liberal support to every public enterprise and every commercial improvement calculated to attract capital and encourage industry and have reaped ample rewards in the enhancement of the common wealth and the consequent personal aggrandizement derived therefrom The most powerful transportation monopoly on this upper coast has grown up in Portland under the management of men who were the sole architects of their own fortunes—achieved all they possess by their own energy and skill in controlling and directing circumstances to their own advantage No men have contributed more to the general prosperity and none have profited more thereby We may deprecate monopoly exacting and exorbitant in its demands but we are obliged to recognize its contributions to the public weal Few if any of the business men of Portland have hoarded their accumulations but contributed with a liberal hand to the building up of the town That is the whole secret of the general success No community can prosper but by co operation Almost anywhere men may accumulate riches by the brute instincts for acquiring and keeping but public prosperity depends upon public spirit the exercise of one of the noblest sentiments of manhood—patriotism The man who is destitute of that sentiment never works like a man but like a brute beast—cunningly selfishly greedily—and he and his accumulations perish together and body and memory rot in oblivion

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

SATURDAY EVENING, Feb 15, 1879.

Silver coin—2@2¾ per cent, discount

The week now drawing to a close has been characterized by more than the usual degree of dullness in nearly all the various departments of finance and trade. But few changes in the general situation have occurred and money lenders, wheat buyers and men in every branch of trade have been heard to complain of a lack of animation. Nor may we expect much activity to rule until the weather is more settled, the roads improve, and the upper Columbia is opened to navigation.

The receipts of produce are very light and current quoted rates are readily obtainable for all staple products. The depression in the breadstuffs market, however, continues, and offers to sell are not generally accepted at anything above $1 67½ per cental for wheat, and $4 75@5 per bbl for flour Oats are steady, potatoes in fair supply at unchanged quotations.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Private Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases. Catarrh Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.
